

Fighting For The Rights Of Personal Injury Victims

HARVARD LAW SCHOOL RARELY GENERATES ATTORNEYS who venture into the battlefield of personal injury litigation; however, in the case of Ben C. Brodhead, Harvard has produced a top-notch trial lawyer who is not afraid of fighting it out in the trenches for his seriously injured clients. Brodhead's efforts and accomplishments have earned him inclusion in the Georgia Super Lawyers® list.

After graduating with honors from Harvard, Brodhead went to the corporate litigation department of Paul, Hastings, Janofsky & Walker LLP, a large international law firm. "Although I liked the challenges of corporate litigation, I felt disconnected from the clients," says Brodhead. Accordingly, in 1998, he went into private practice and dedicated his efforts exclusively to representing injury victims. Since then, Brodhead has quietly amassed a track record of multimillion-dollar verdicts and settlements for his clients.

BEN BRODHEAD IS THE ATTORNEY OTHER ATTORNEYS CALL Whether it is to refer a case or simply ask for insight on a complicated matter, Brodhead is the attorney other attorneys call. "Whenever I have a significant personal injury case, I always send it to Ben Brodhead because I know the case will be handled right and the client will get the best possible result," says Marietta attorney Larry Hanna. "I am very proud of the fact that other attorneys trust me enough to refer their clients," says Brodhead, "but even when someone just calls to ask for advice or to brainstorm strategies for a case, I am always glad to help." Attorney Samuel E. Earley, Jr. confirmed this and said, "Ben Brodhead has been a tremendous help to me as I have built my practice. Most attorneys become unapproachable when they reach such a high level of success, but Mr. Brodhead has been very generous with his time and advice." When asked about Earley's statement, Brodhead said, "I feel it is the duty of experienced attorneys to help advance the profession in every way possible, and I believe mentoring is the best way to do that."

PREPARATION MAKES PERFECT Brodhead says he never compromises on case preparation. "Ben Brodhead is the most prepared, hardest-working person I have ever seen in any profession," says Theodore P. Rowe, one of Brodhead's clients. "It was his dedication and tireless preparation that allowed us to win a multimillion-dollar verdict in a case that other attorneys would have lost." For Brodhead, it's simple: "Preparation makes the difference between winning and losing, and losing is unacceptable."
